STORY

Legends told of the Joy Chest that lay hidden in the depths of the mysterious Magic Dungeon. It was described as a mystic chest that bestowed happiness on whomever held it. Many brave souls ventured into the Magic Dungeon seeking the chest, but none was ever successful.

Then Torneko, a man who dreamed of becoming the world's greatest merchant, came to the kingdom. He began his dungeon exploration at the request of the King. Soon he had his own store, which grew bigger and more popular each time he emerged from the dungeons with goods to sell.

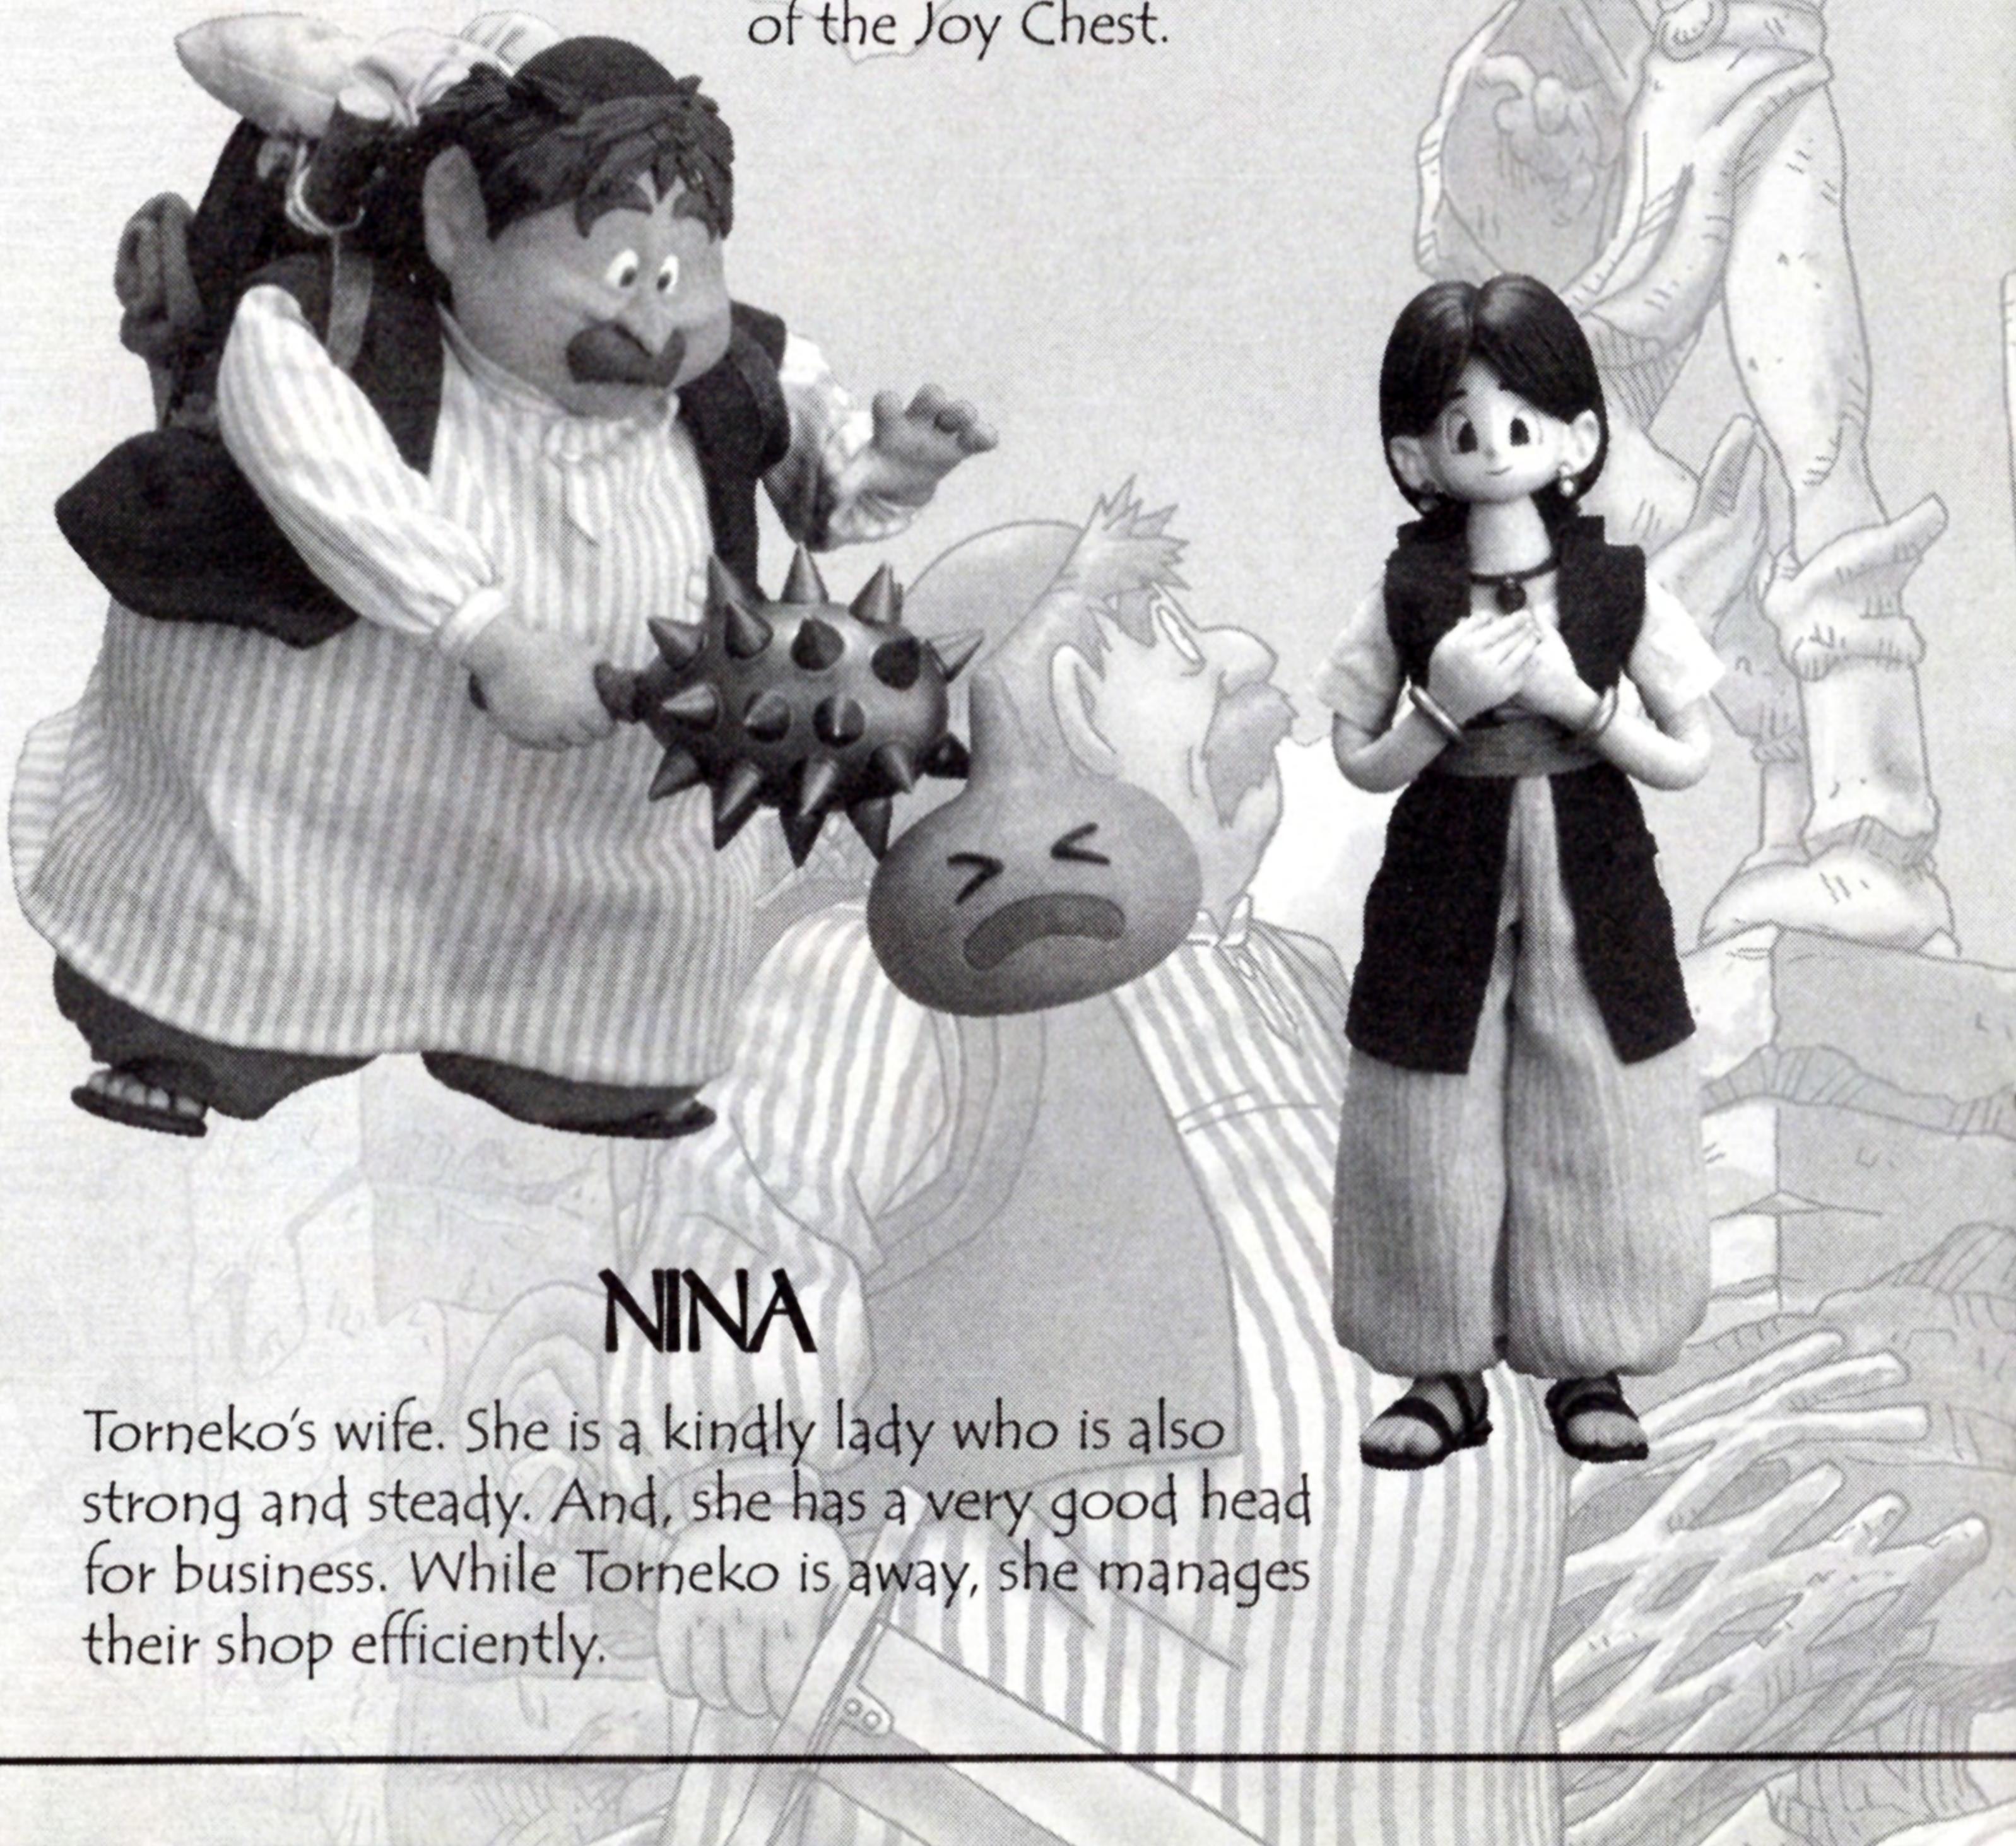

Thanks to the support of his wife Nina, his son Paulo, the friendly carpenters Ed and Mondo, and store employees Gon and Polly, Torneko eventually succeeded in fighting his way through the Magic Dungeon and bringing back the Joy Chest. The magic song of the Chest not only made Torneko happy, but the entire village as well.

And so Torneko settled down to a peaceful life. However, just six months after his original adventure, more troubles arose. Monsters appeared outside of dungeons and began threatening people's homes. The King was distraught. Eager to put things right, Torneko decides to once again set out on a grand adventure.

The object of TORNEKO: THE LAST HOPE is to enter a variety of dungeons and achieve various goals in order to progress.

DUNGEON LAYOUT

Dungeons change shape every time Torneko enters. Each dungeon consists of a number of floors that become increasingly challenging as Torneko goes deeper. On each dungeon floor is one descending stairway. Keep going down until you reach your objective. Once you enter a dungeon, you can't leave until you reach your goal. If Torneko must escape from a dungeon, he must use a certain magic scroll, get help from a priest, or complete the dungeon's objective.

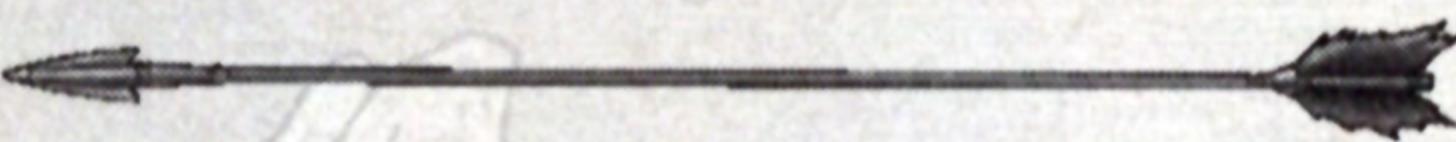

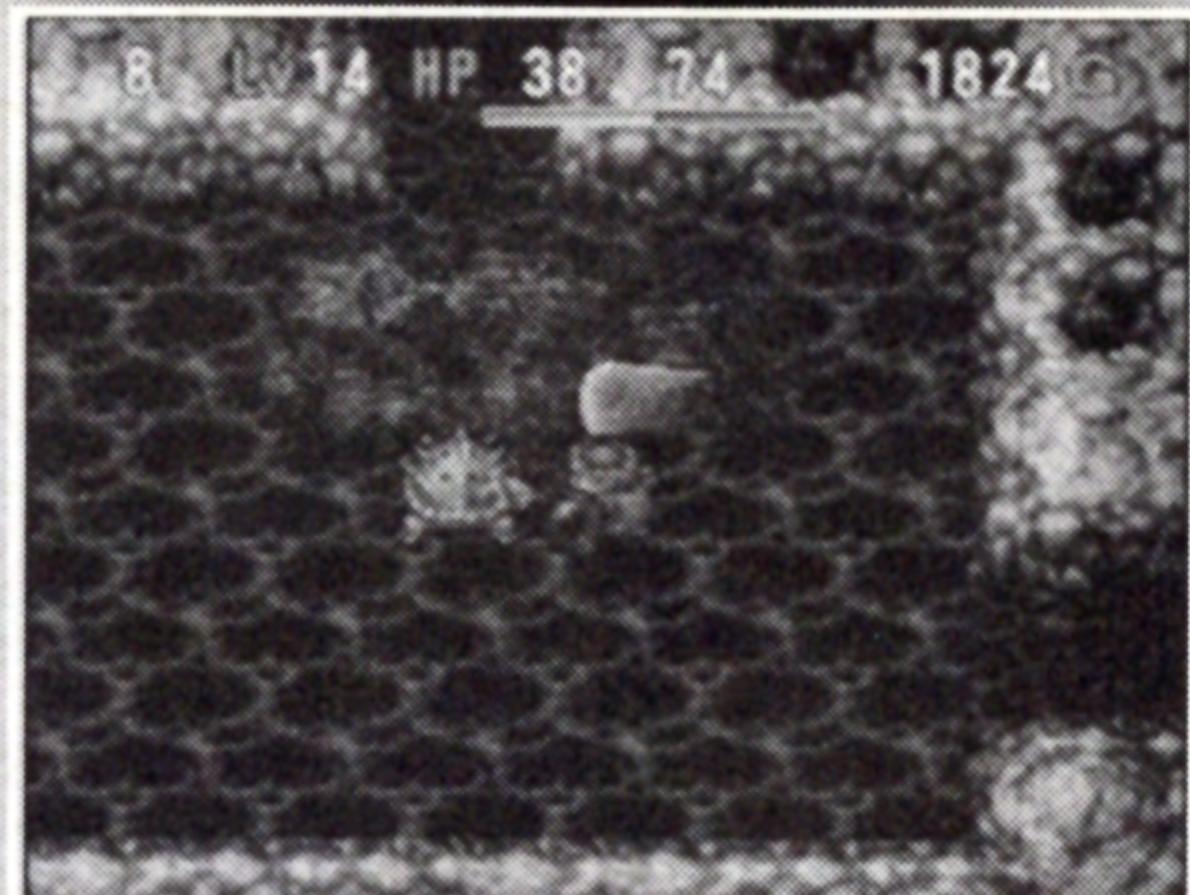

PICKING UP ITEMS

There are many items to be found on the floors of dungeons. They are indicated as blue spots on the dungeon map. Generally dungeons are where Torneko will obtain the items he needs for his adventures. Once picked up, the items may be sold at Torneko's shop or stored in his storehouse, but only if he manages to safely return to the surface.

BATTLE

A hair-raising variety of monsters await unwary dungeon explorers. Torneko must fight them to make progress. Battles are conducted in turns. Whenever Torneko performs some sort of action (such as taking a step), the monsters also take an action of their own. If Torneko comes close to a monster, use diagonal movements or swing his weapon to try to avoid letting the monster get in the first hit. You can attack monsters from a distance using arrows or staves.

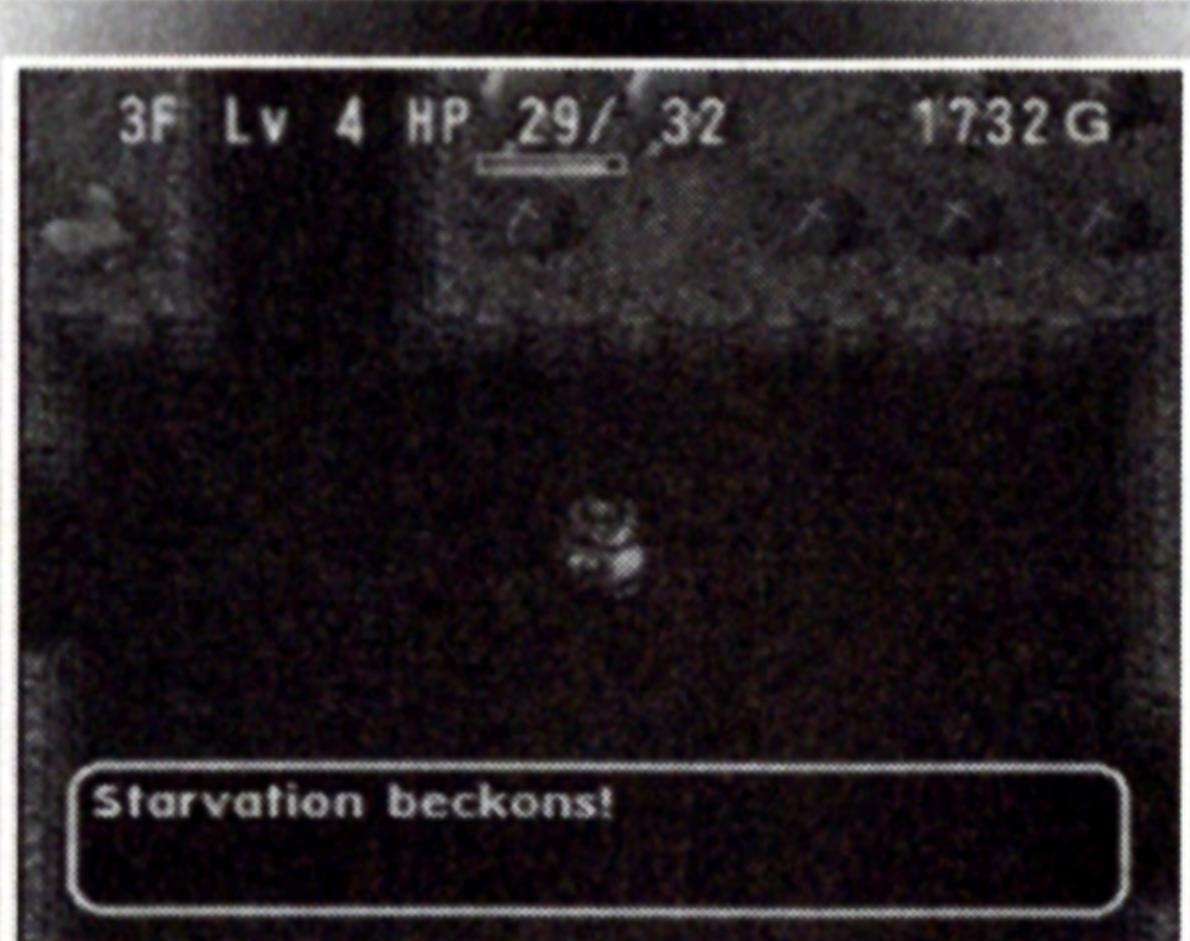

LEVELS

By defeating a monster, Torneko earns experience points (EX Points). On earning a certain number of EX Points, Torneko levels up, becoming physically stronger and sturdier. He also increases his maximum Hit Points (HP), making him better suited for dangerous exploration. However, his level drops back down to 1 when he returns to the surface. If his HP drops to 0 or he faints due to hunger, he is automatically returned home.

HUNGER

While walking about, Torneko grows steadily hungrier. If his hunger isn't satisfied, he will eventually faint (and earn a free ticket out of the dungeon, losing half his money and all his items). To prevent this, make sure Torneko eats some bread. Besides bread, he may also consume herbs, which just slightly relieve his relentless hunger.

Numbers in square brackets after items, such as [6], indicate how many times the item may be used.

| GIVE UP | Torneko can abandon this dungeon exploration trip and return home. However, he will lose all his items. |

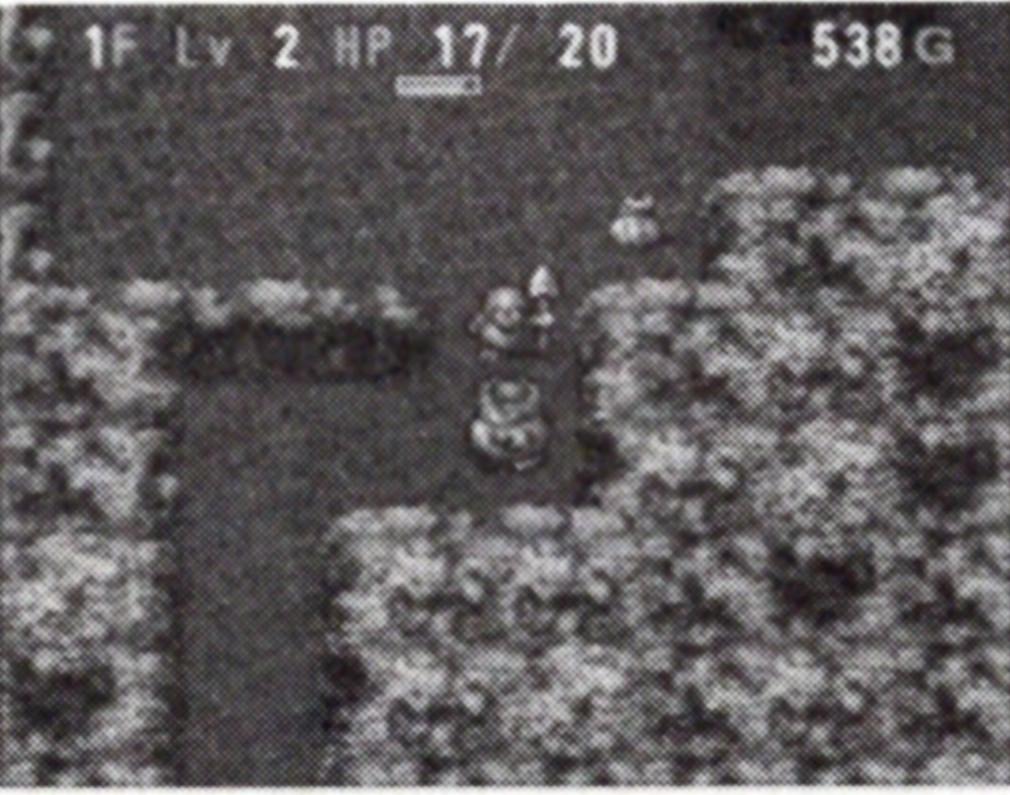

If you spot an item, make Torneko stand on top of it to pick it up. However, if Torneko has no more room for an item, he won't be able to pick it up. If that happens, make Torneko throw away or put down an unnecessary item before picking up the new item. Remember, items such as weapons, shields, and rings must be equipped to have any effect.

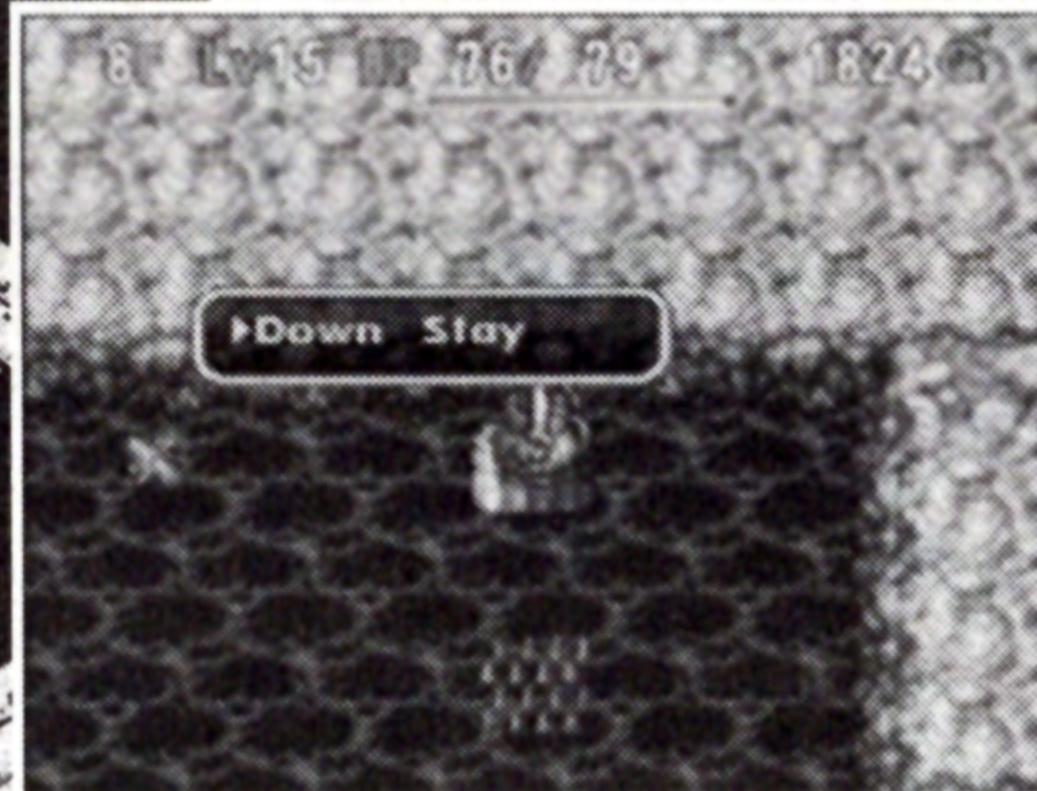

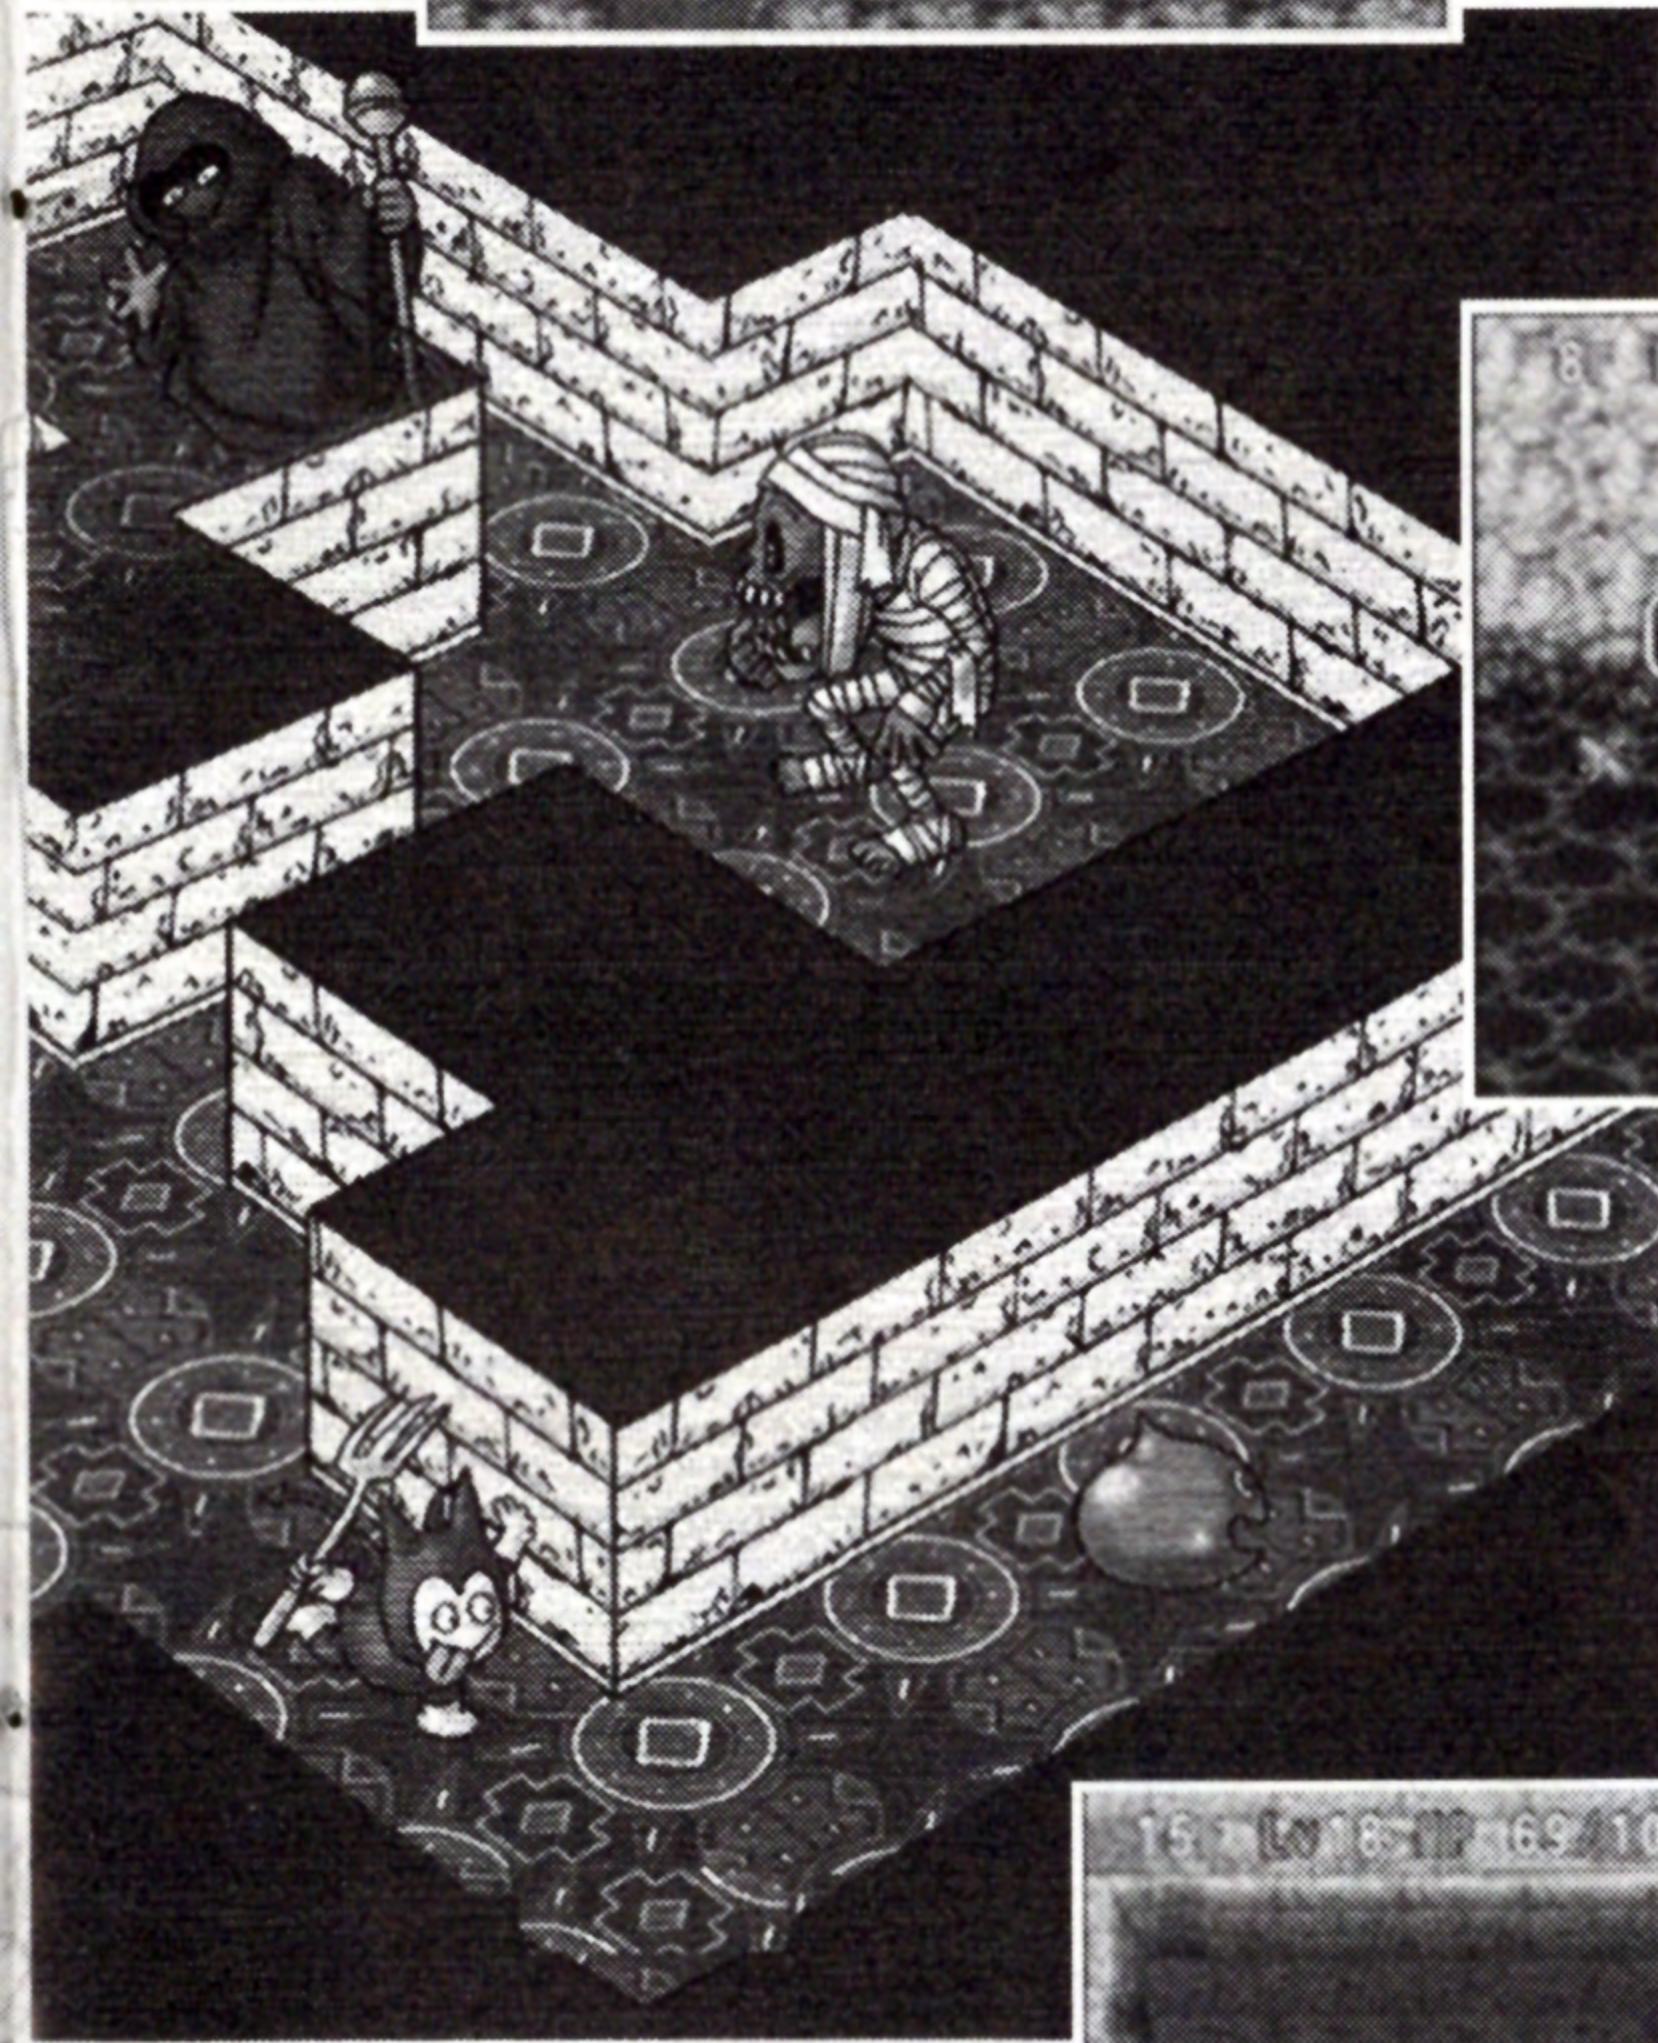

When Torneko enters a dungeon, he should first wander around and check the area. The chambers he has entered will show as light blue on the map. Torneko is indicated by a yellow dot and items are shown as blue dots, while red dots indicate monsters and other moving objects. A blue square indicates a stairway. If you find a stairway, you can choose to go down it right away, or you can explore the rest of the floor first.

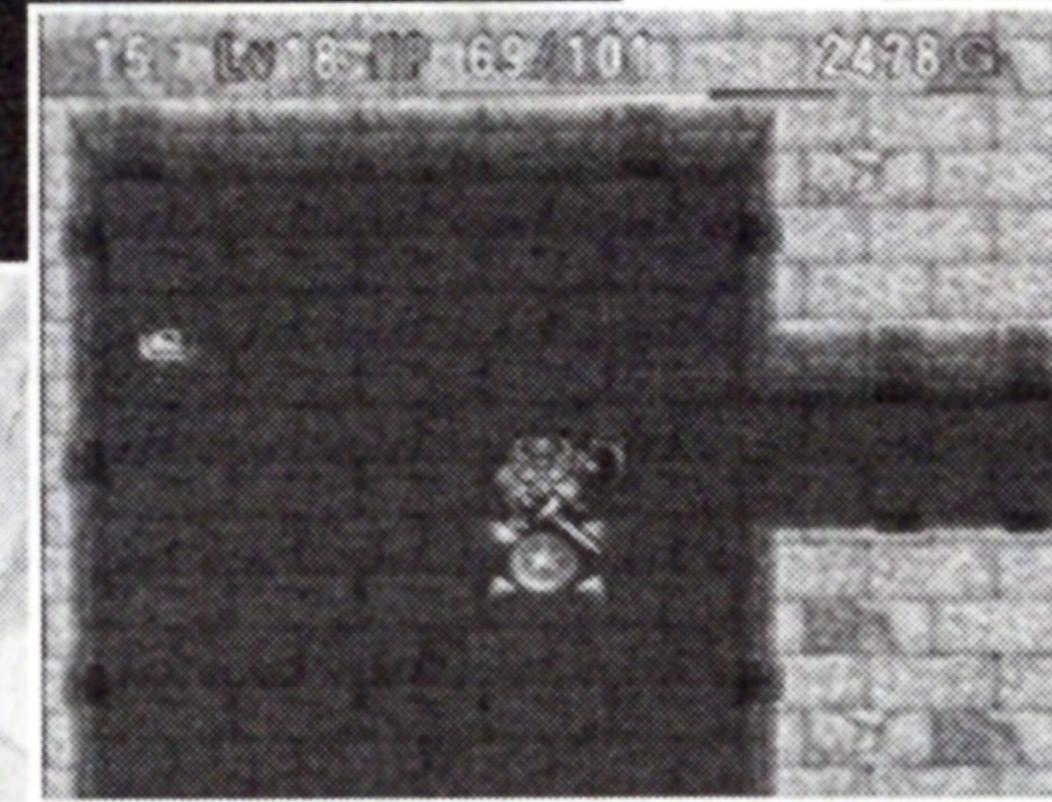

While wandering around in a dungeon, monsters will be attracted to Torneko. Battles against monsters occur in turns. Try to move Torneko intelligently so that he can get in the first strike if a monster comes up to him.

If Torneko is hurt in battle, walking automatically restores his HP. By moving Torneko at high speed (with the ● Button pressed), you can restore his HP at a faster rate. However, high-speed movement also makes him get hungry faster. If there are many monsters nearby, you might want to have Torneko chew Herbs or Super Herbs to restore HP.

If you spot a stairway, stand on it. Select and enter "Down" to proceed to the next floor when you feel ready.

Many kinds of traps are hidden inside a dungeon.

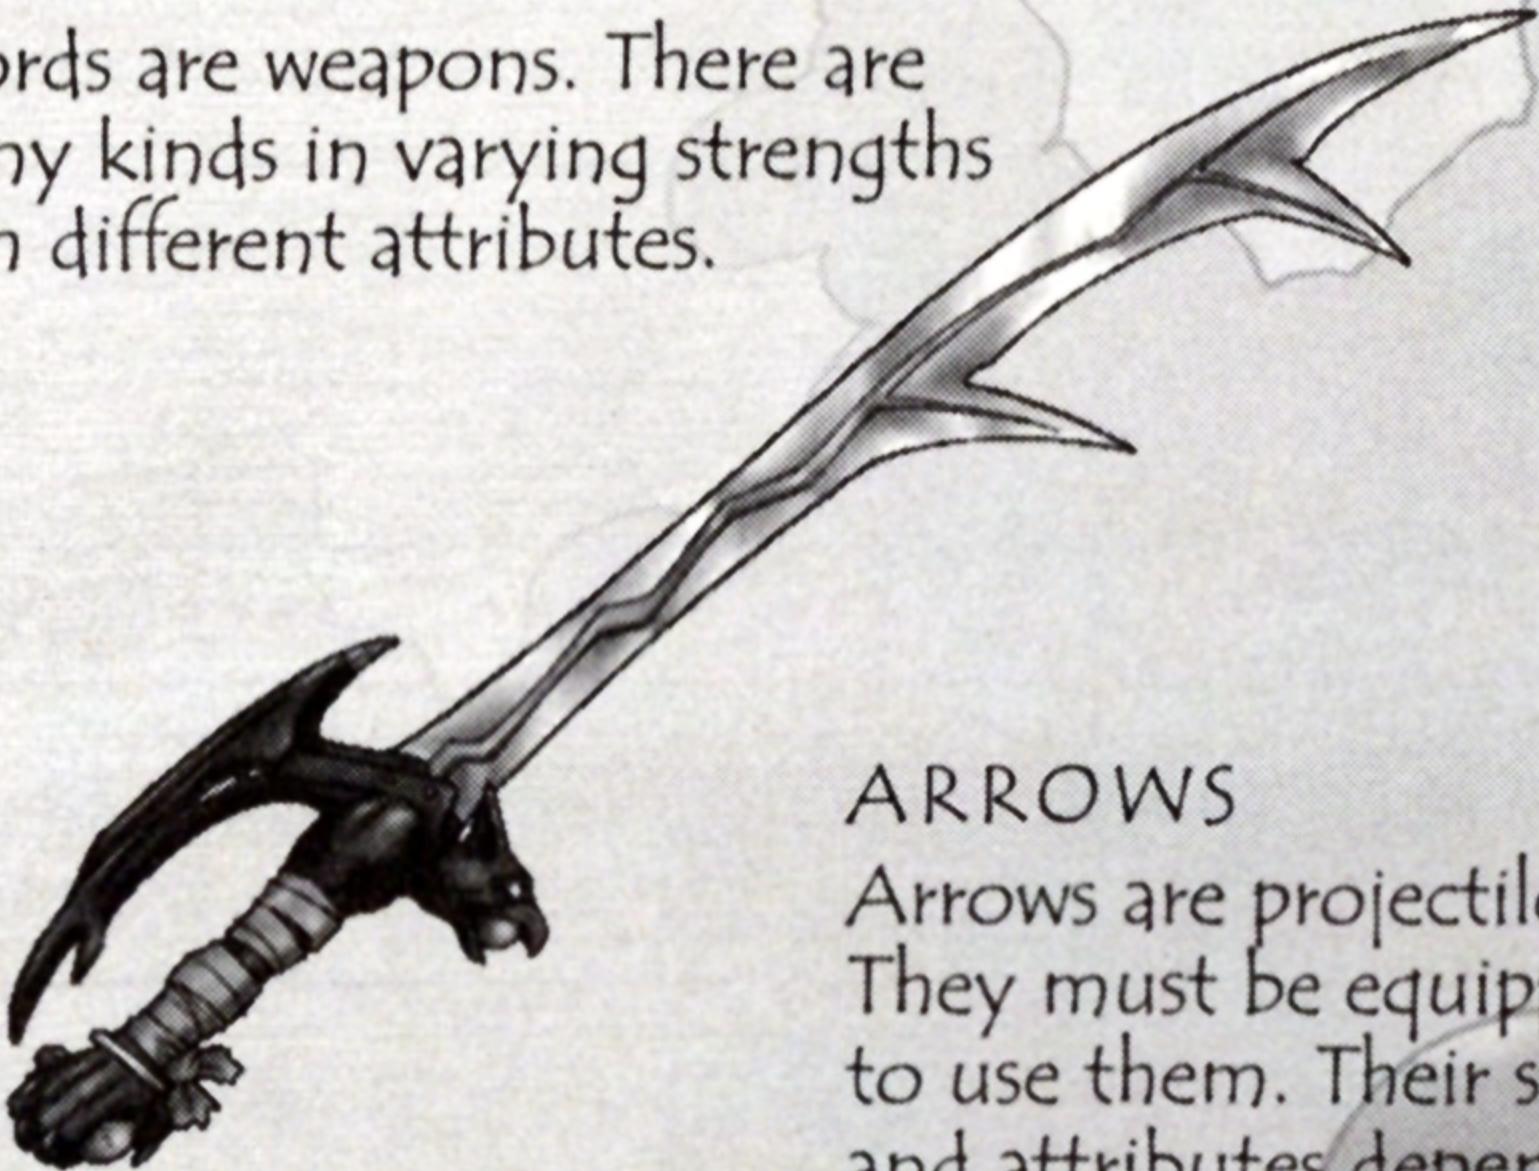

A trap can be uncovered by waving a weapon in front of it. Be especially wary in Monster Houses – not only do they teem with monsters, there are also many hidden traps.

Many kinds of items can be found on the floors of dungeons.

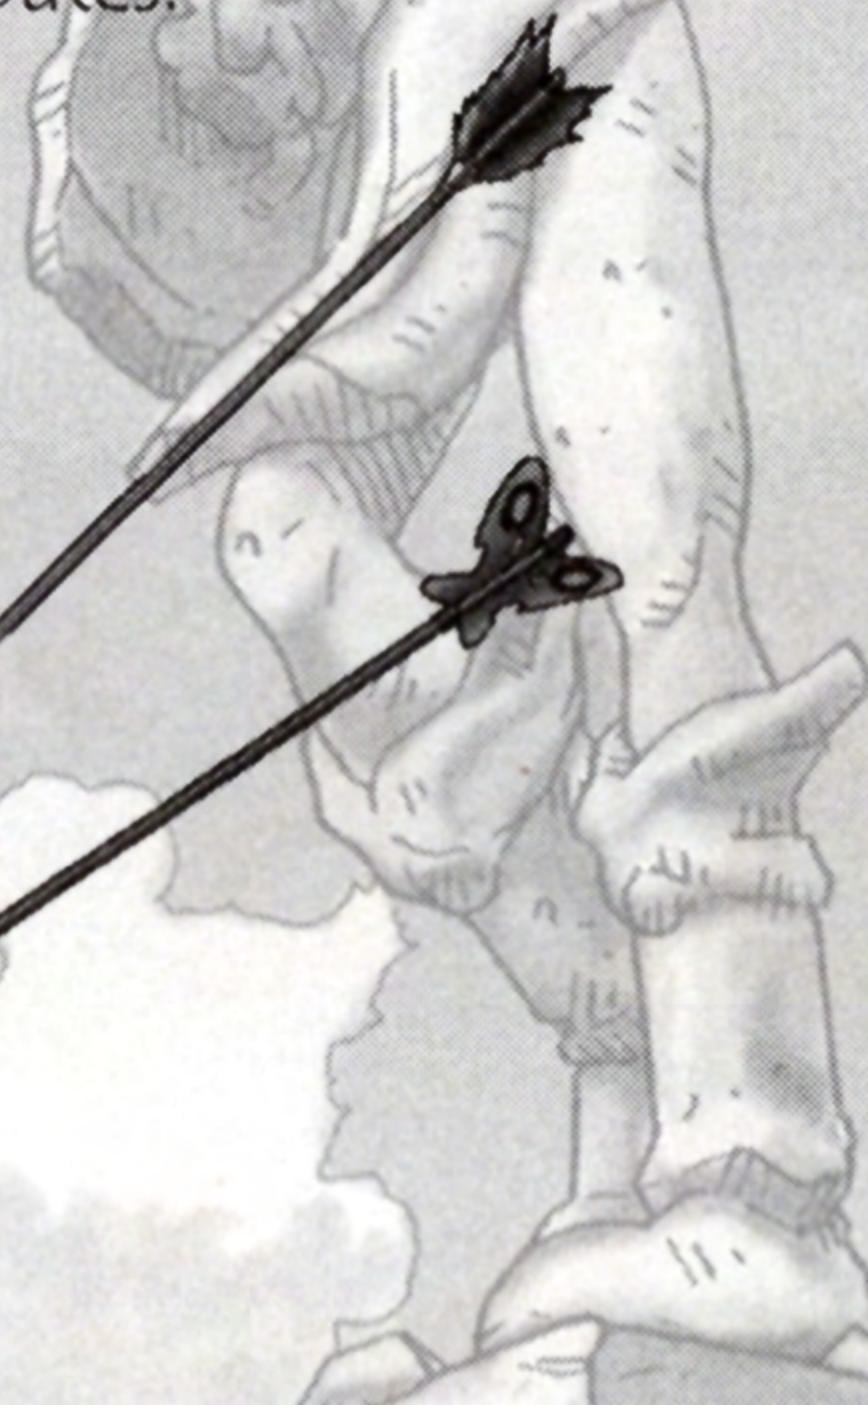

SWORDS

Swords are weapons. There are many kinds in varying strengths with different attributes.

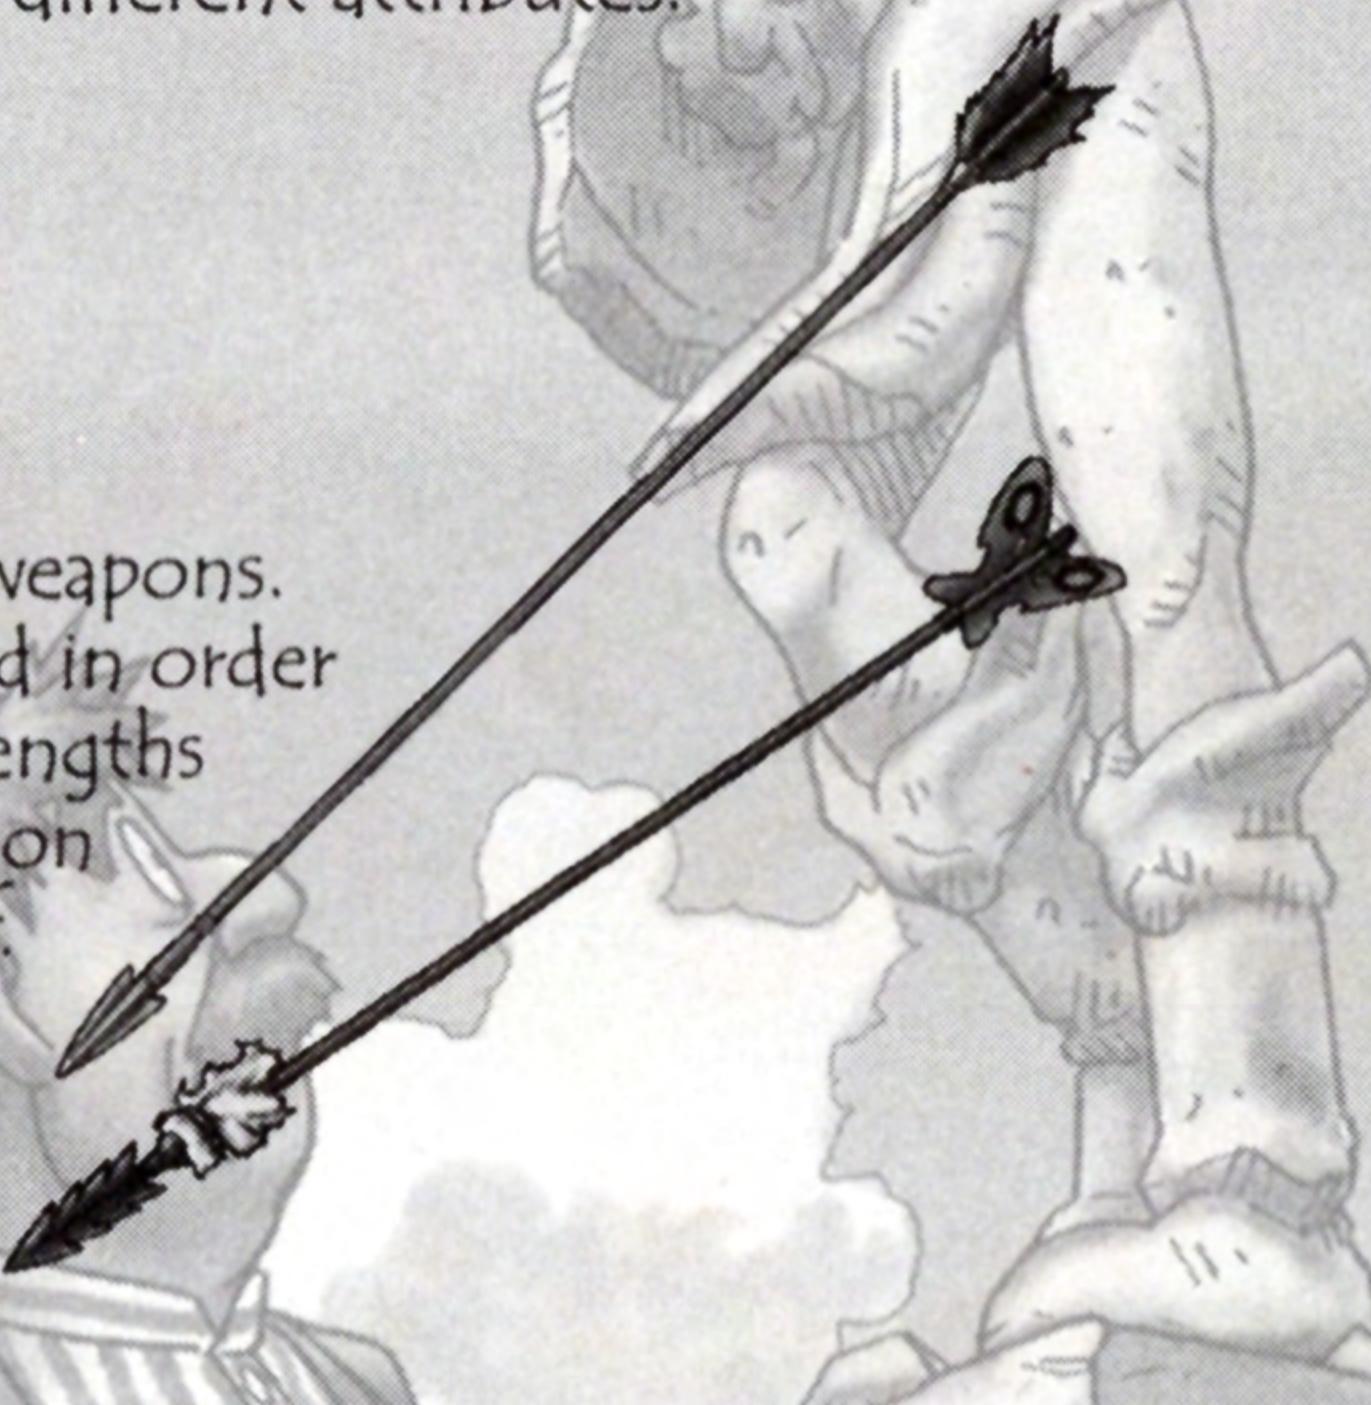

SHIELDS

Shields are protective equipment. There are also many kinds in varying strengths with different attributes.

ARROWS

Arrows are projectile weapons. They must be equipped in order to use them. Their strengths and attributes depend on what they are made of.

STAVES

These are magical staves. Wave a staff to unleash its magic. The number in square brackets next to the staff's name, such as [5], indicates how many times the staff may be used.

IRON SAFE

If Torneko has this item, he won't lose his money even if he faints in a dungeon.

SCROLLS

These are scrolls that are printed with magic spells. Cast a spell by reading the scroll. A scroll is good for only one use.

POTS

Pots are used in different ways. Some are used by placing items inside. Numbers in square brackets, such as [5], indicate how many times items can be placed inside a pot, or how many times a pot may be used.

BREAD

Bread satisfies Torneko's relentless hunger. There are several kinds with varying effects.

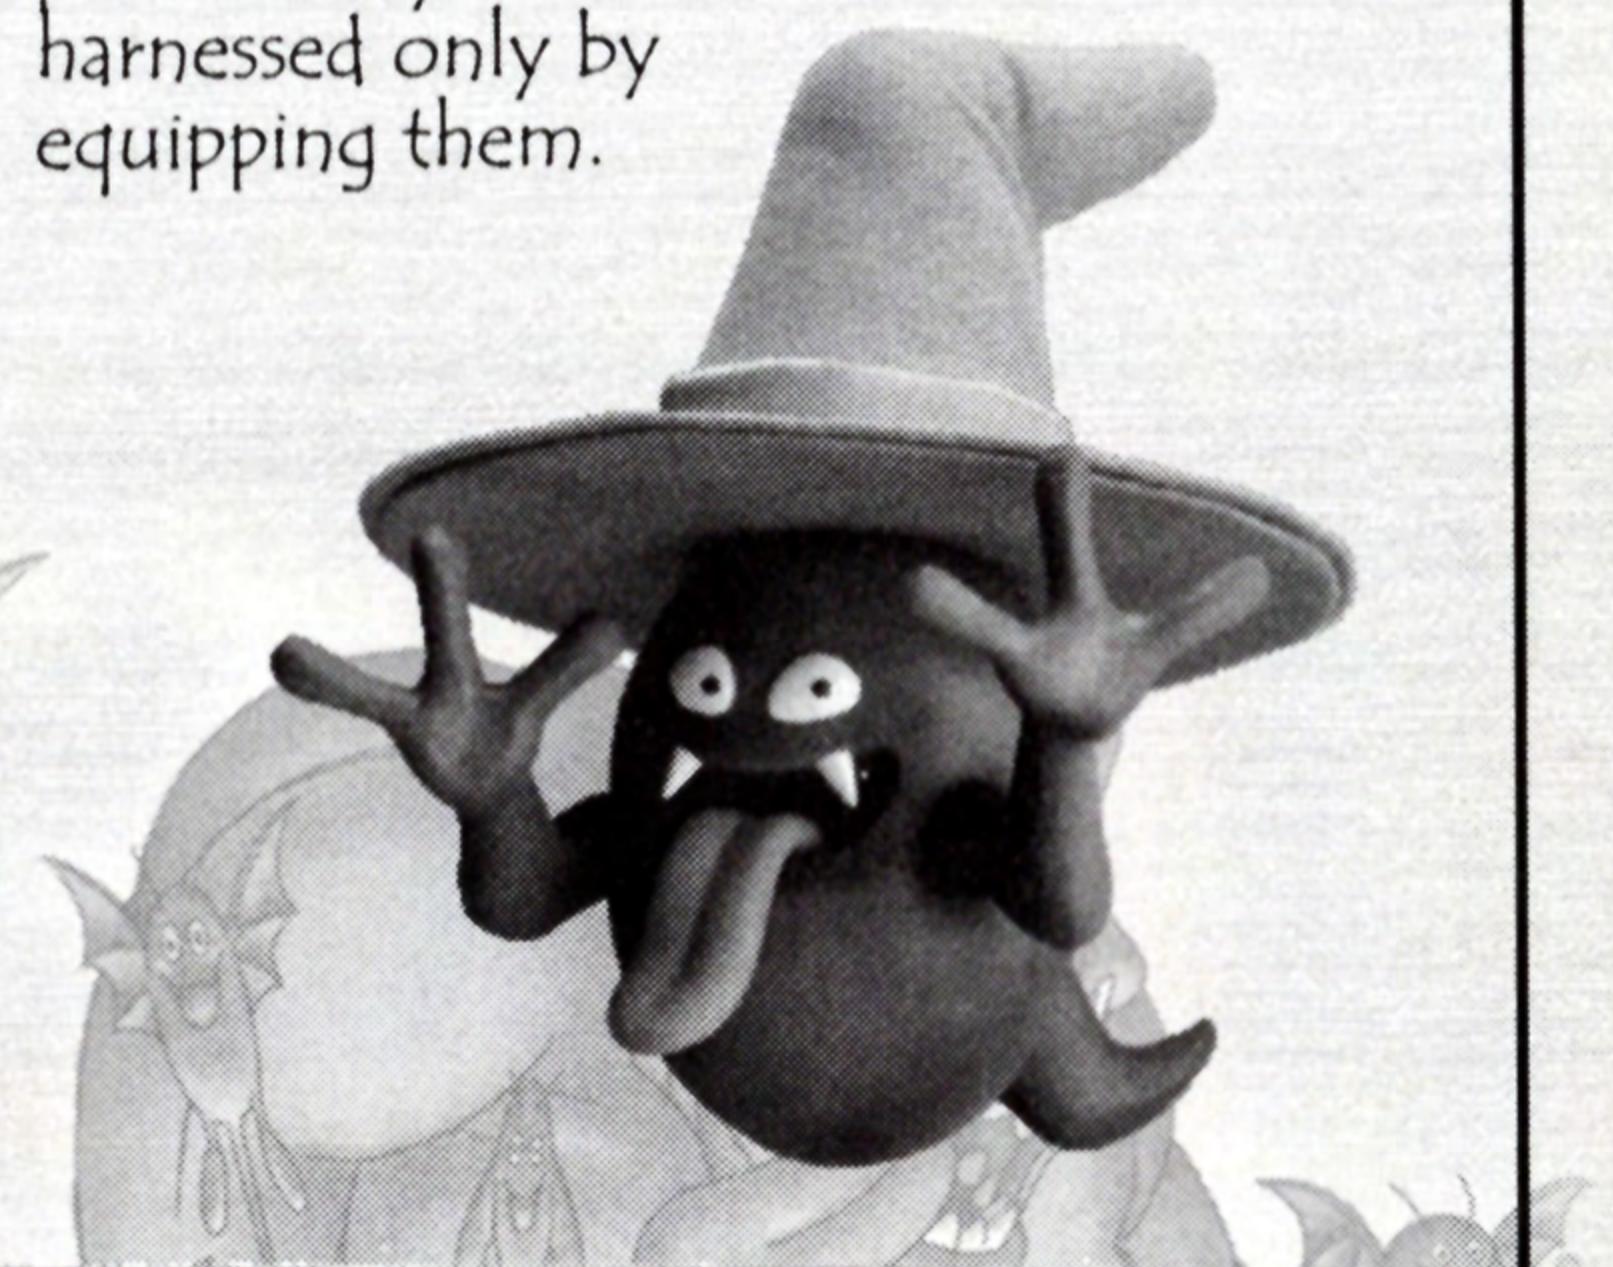

HERBS

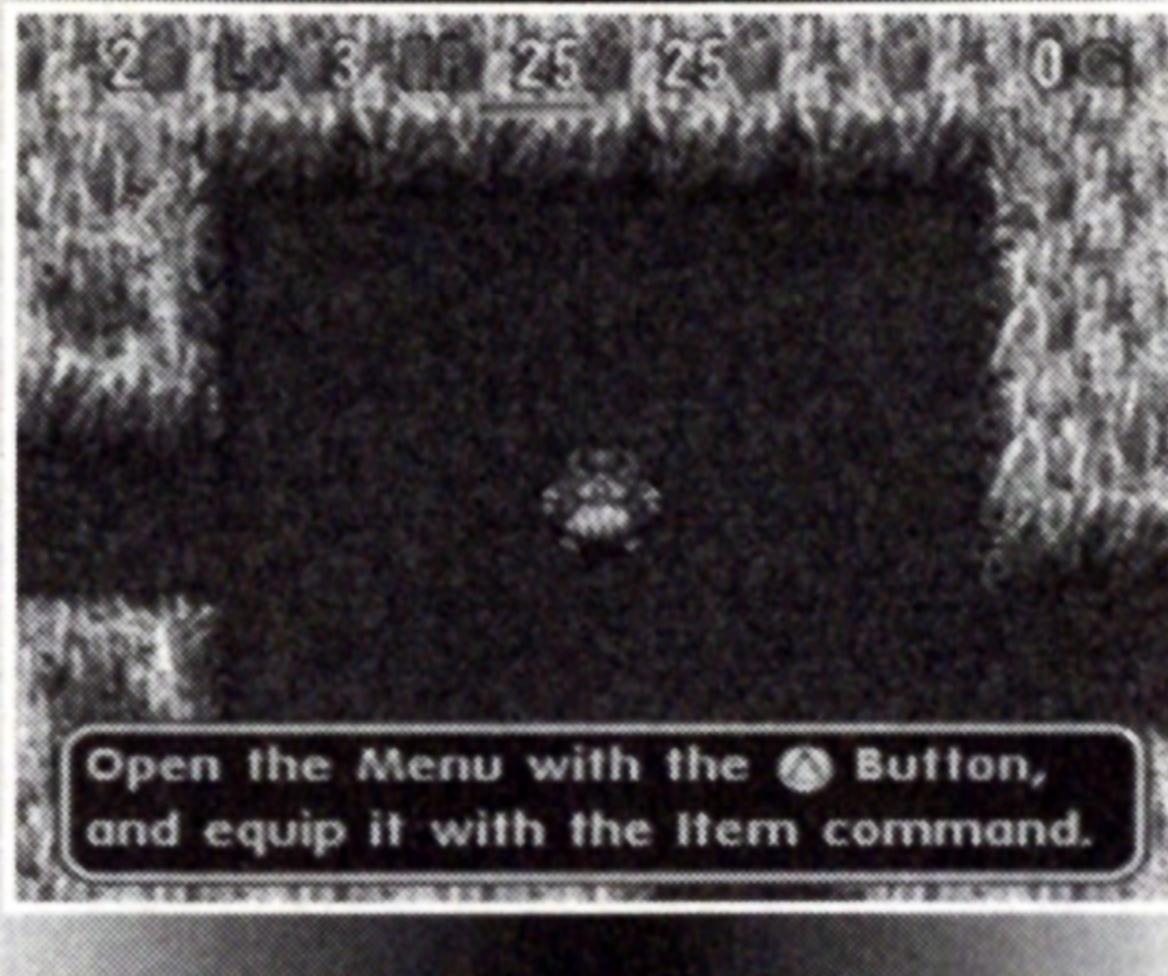

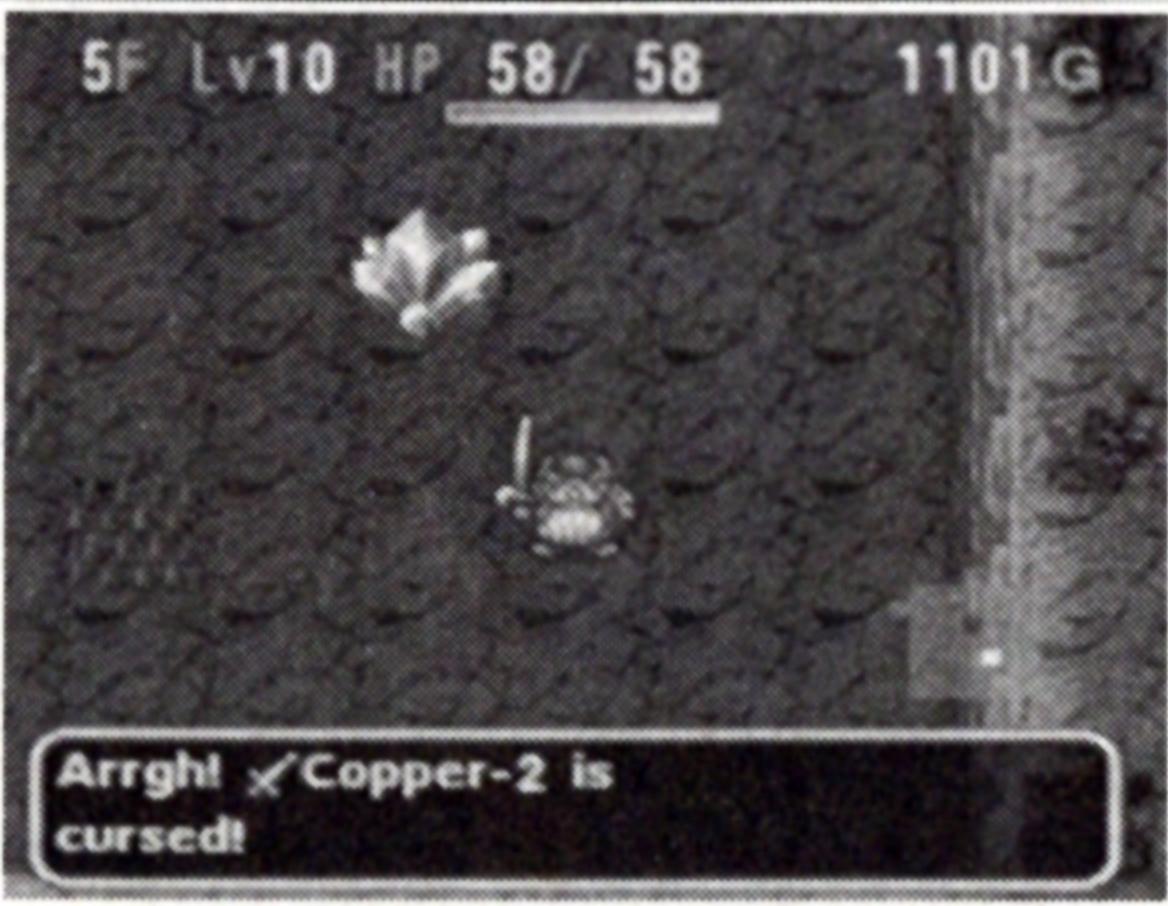

There are several kinds of herbs with different effects. Torneko should chew some, while others should only be thrown at monsters.

RINGS

Rings are accessories with magical powers. Their powers may be harnessed only by equipping them.

There are many other kinds of items to be found in dungeons. Torneko should enter dungeons often to seek out these treasures.

LEARN THE BASICS IN THE ODD FIELD

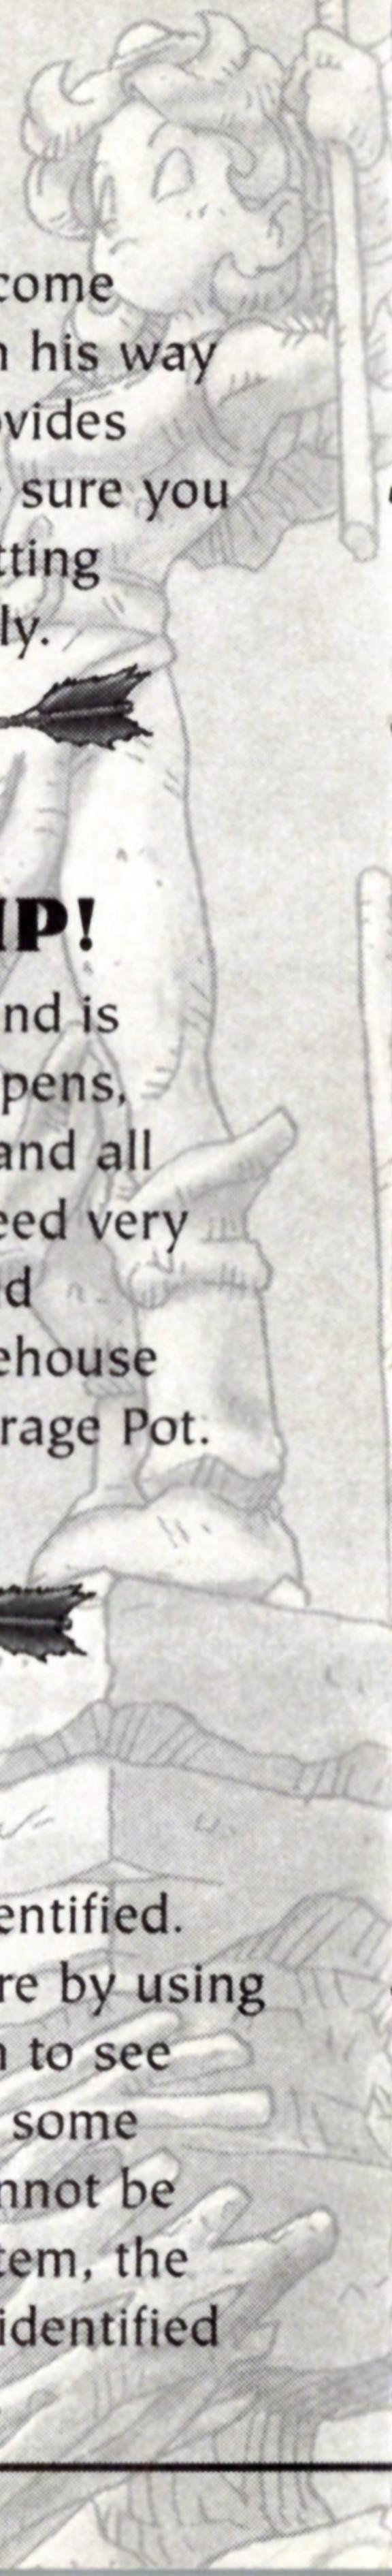

After starting the game, Torneko will come to the first dungeon, the Odd Field, on his way to the King's castle. This dungeon provides many kinds of advice and hints. Make sure you read them and learn the basics for getting Torneko through dungeons successfully.

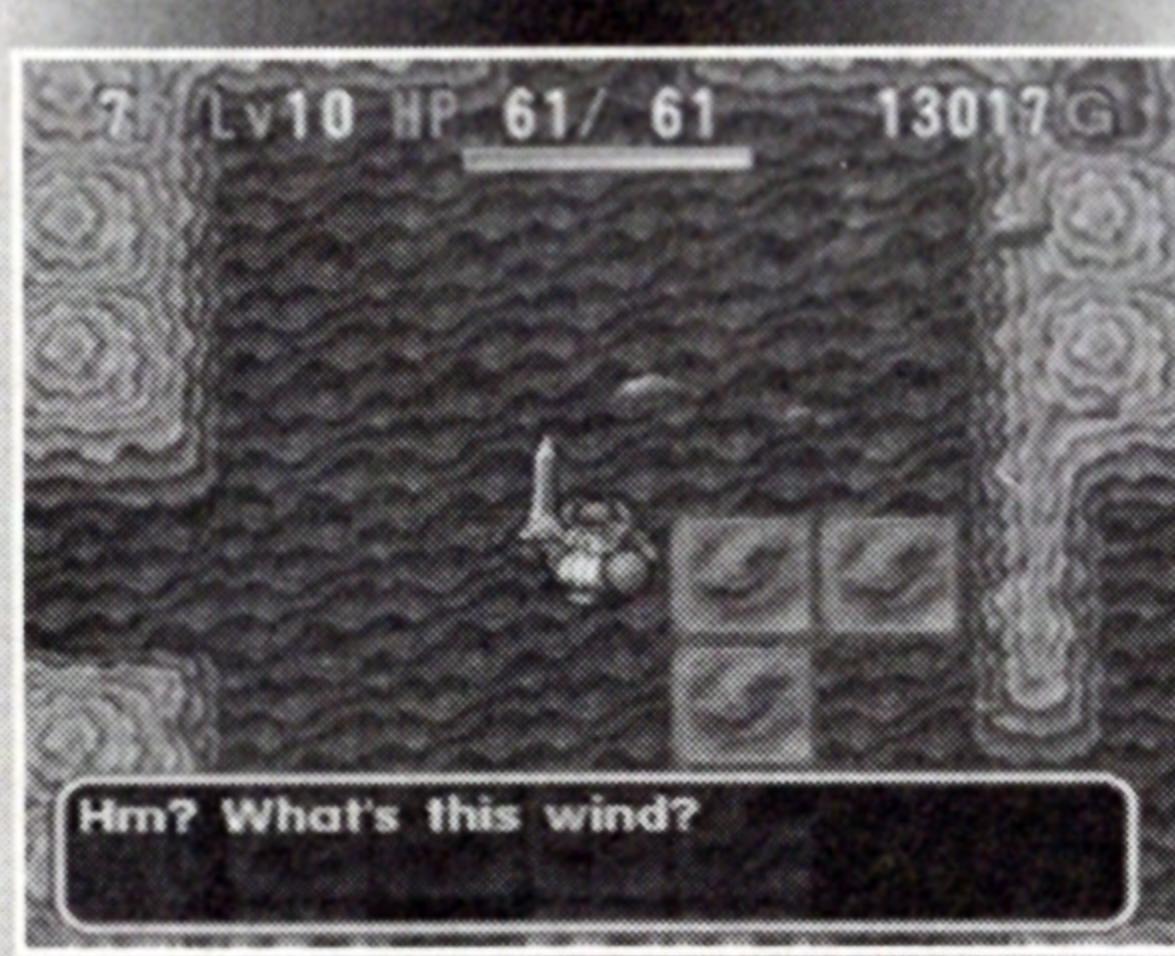

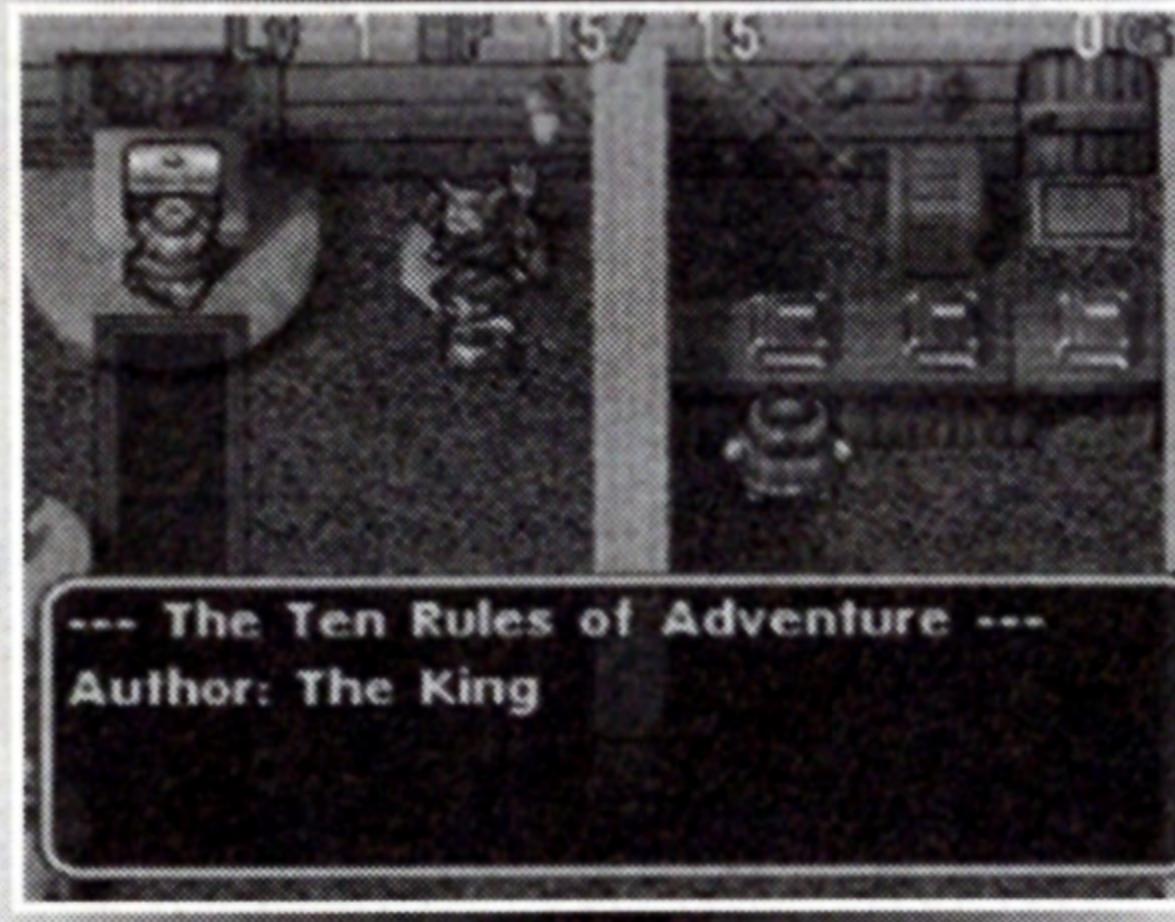

WATCH TORNEKO'S HP!

If Torneko's HP drops to 0, he faints and is tossed out of the dungeon. If that happens, he loses half his hard-earned money and all his items. Don't push your luck; proceed very carefully in dungeons. You should send precious items back to Torneko's storehouse in the village by placing them in a Storage Pot.

TRY ITEMS TO SEE WHAT THEY DO

Some items in dungeons may be unidentified. It's possible to determine what they are by using an X-Ray Scroll, or by equipping them to see what effects they may have. However, some items may be cursed; cursed items cannot be removed. If Torneko equips a cursed item, the curse can be dispelled by a priest. Unidentified items may be given temporary names.

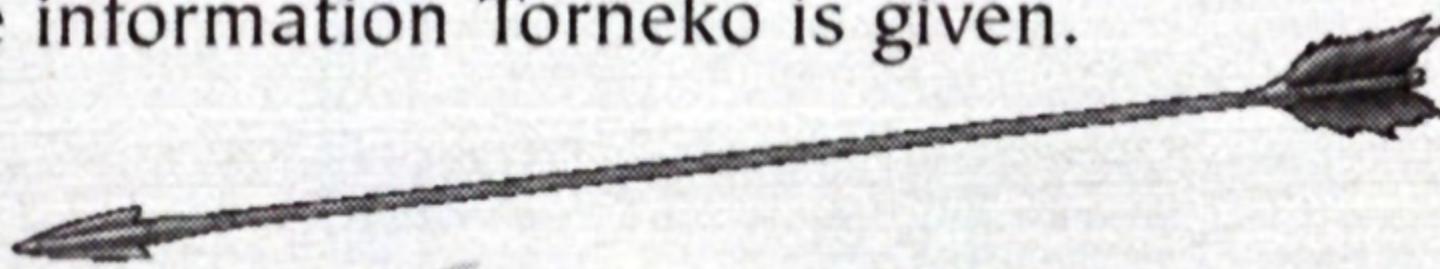

GETTING OUT OF A DUNGEON

There are several ways of getting out of a dungeon. Achieving the dungeon's goal warps you out. Torneko may also escape a dungeon by reading an Outside Scroll or enlisting the help of a priest. By safely escaping a dungeon in such ways, you can take items and money back to the village.

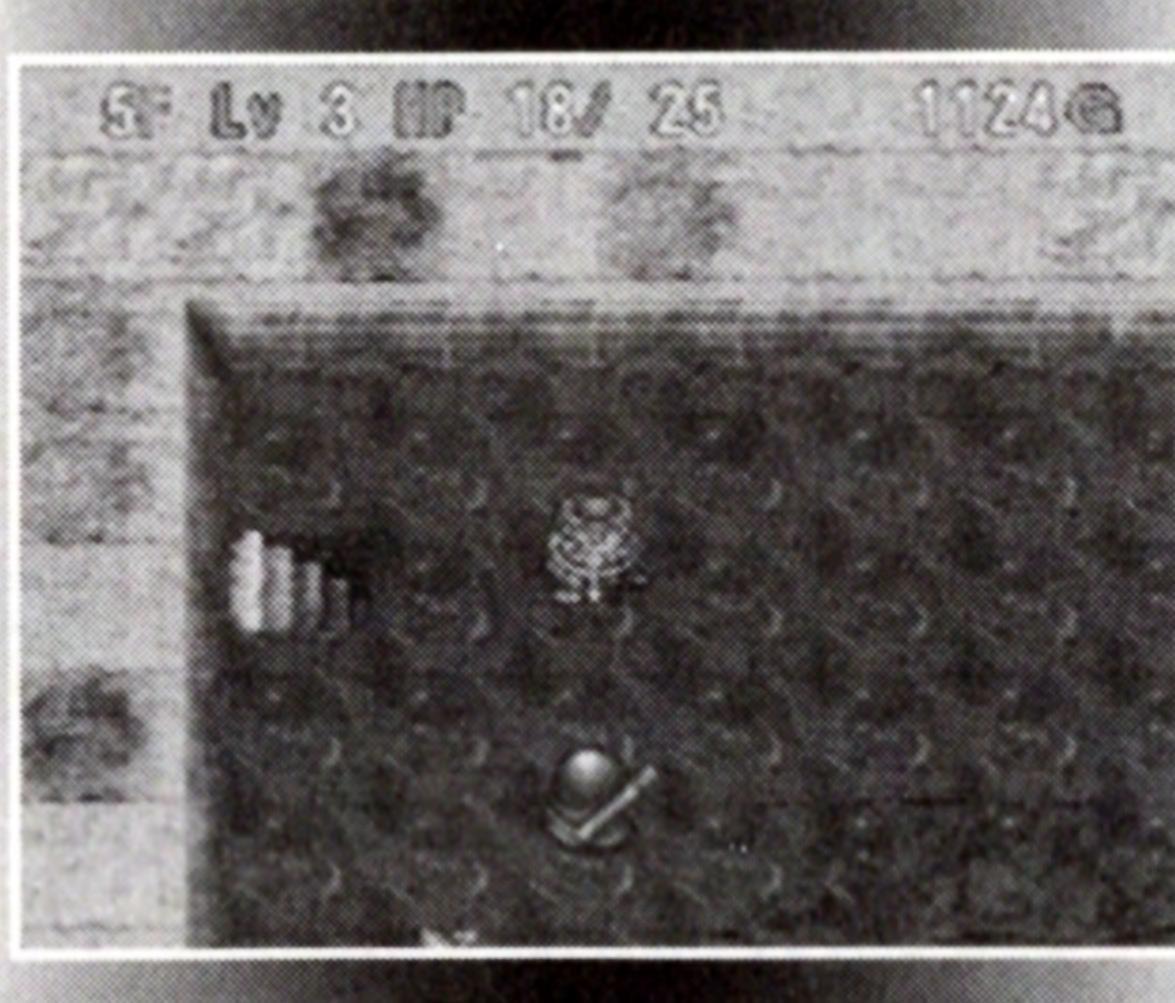

PAY ATTENTION TO OTHER PEOPLE

The people in the village and the castle, and the Ten Rules of Adventure, provide invaluable hints. Listen carefully to what the people have to tell Torneko. Make sure Torneko reads the advice written by the King. These hints will certainly help Torneko survive the treacherous dungeons. Don't be lazy – pay attention to the information Torneko is given.

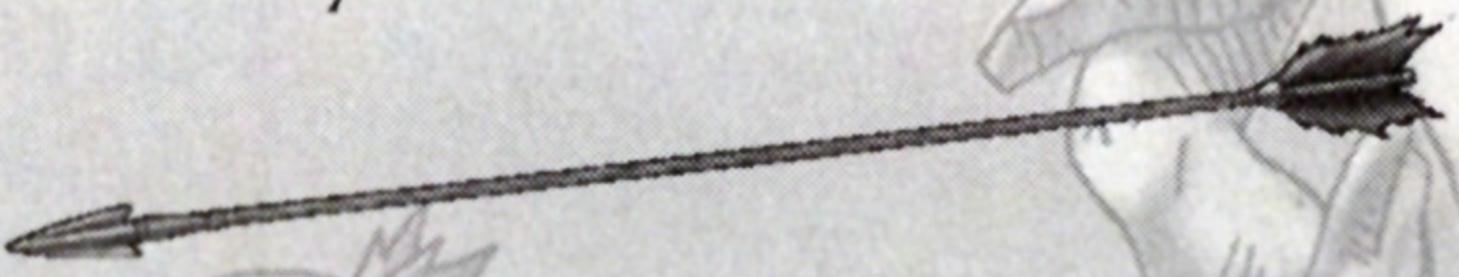

DON'T STAY TOO LONG ON ANY FLOOR

If Torneko remains too long on any given floor of a dungeon, a windstorm will carry him back above ground minus all his money and items. Although you should stick around on a given floor to level up Torneko, staying there too long could be disastrous. Torneko should proceed to the next floor before too long.

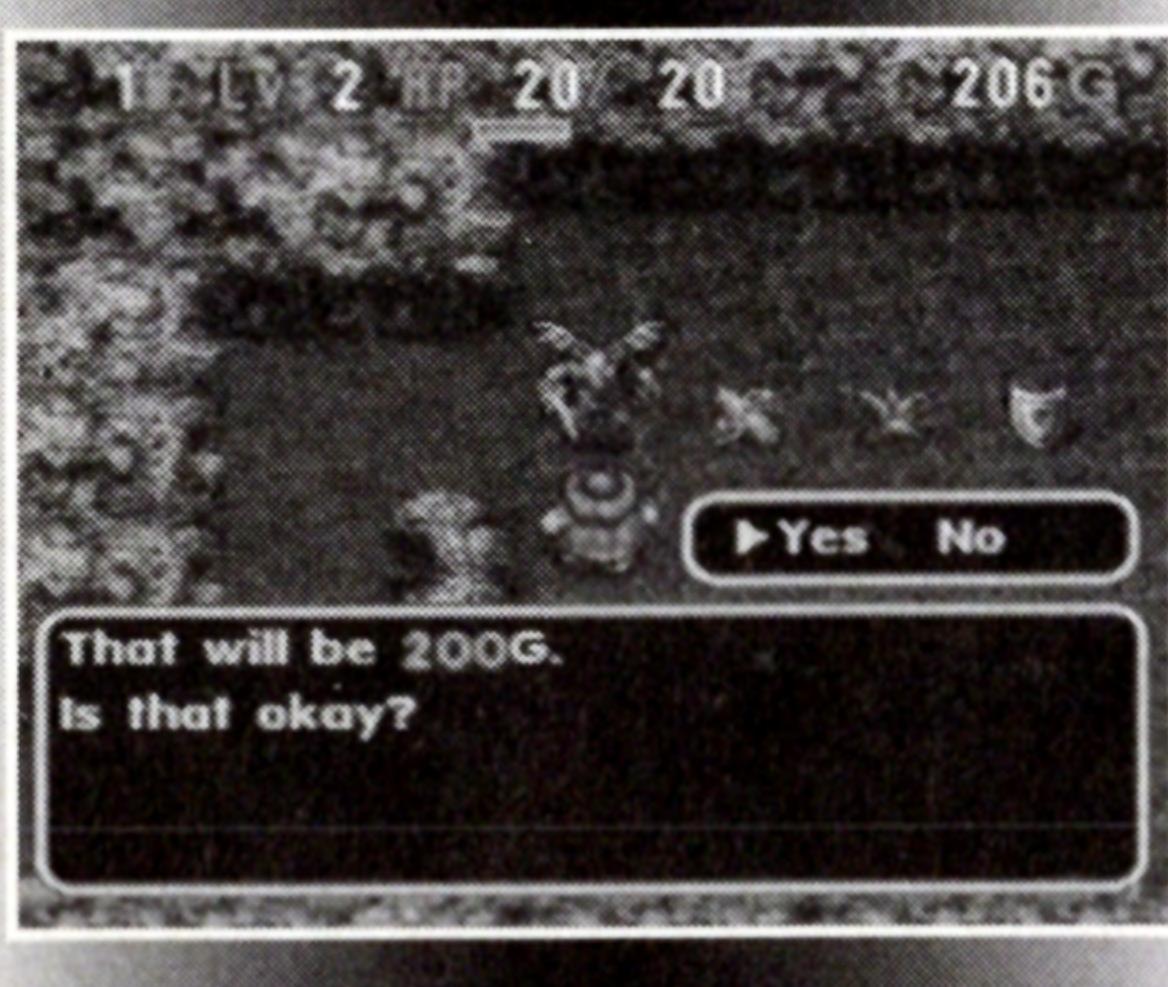

USE PROJECTILES TO BEAT MONSTERS

If Torneko battles a tough monster, he is likely to be hurt, perhaps badly. You should use projectile weapons such as arrows and magical staves to inflict damage on monsters while they are too far away to hurt Torneko. It's also possible to hurt monsters a little by throwing unnecessary items at them.

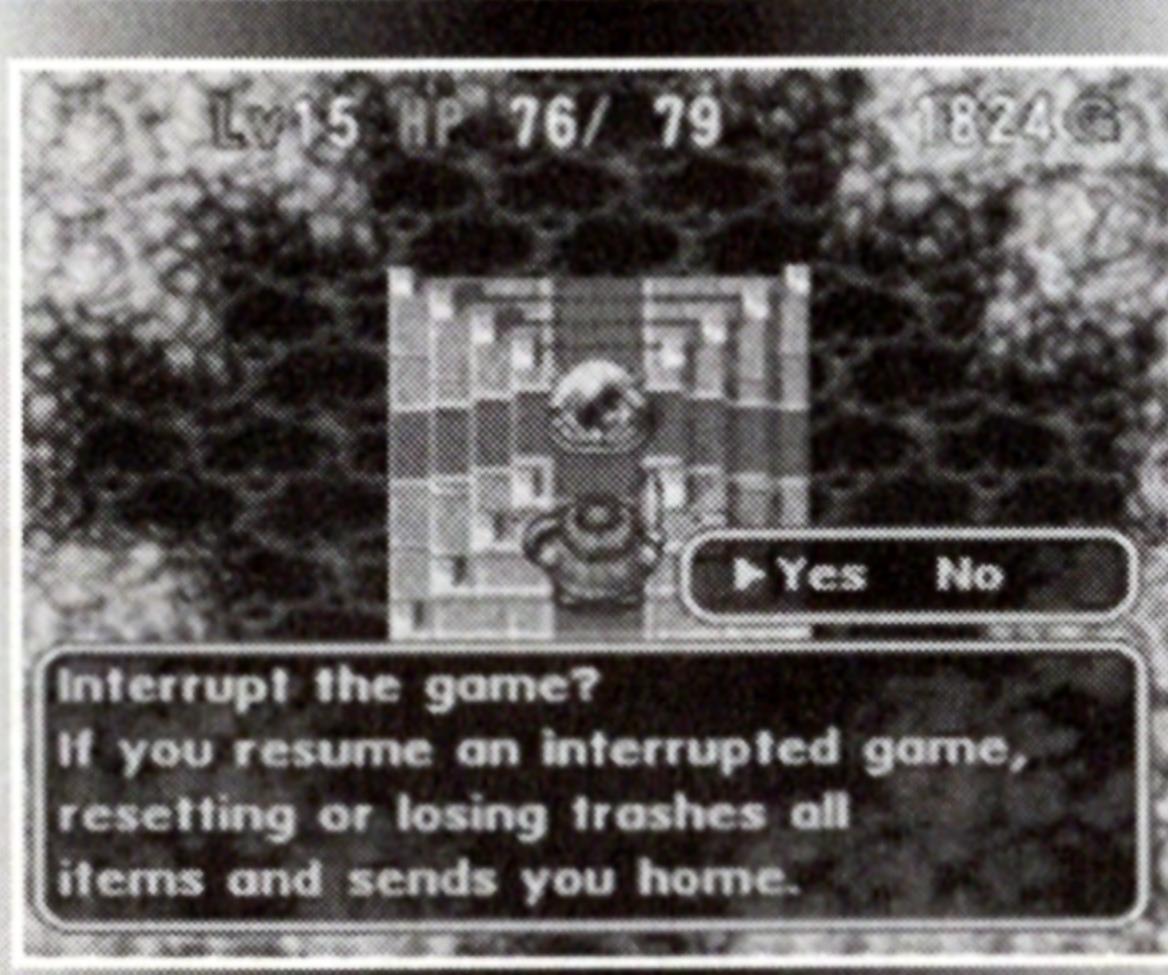

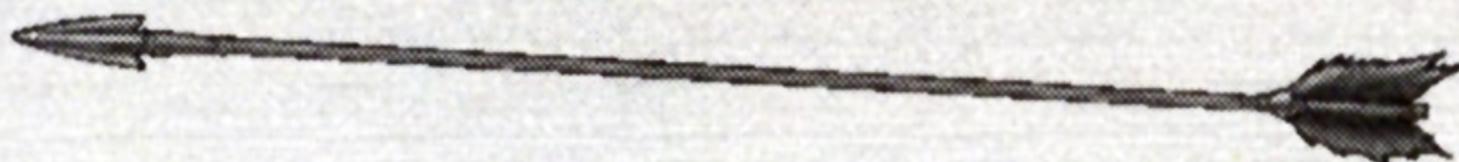

IF TORNEKO IS FULLY LOADED...

If Torneko is carrying the maximum number of items, he won't be able to pick up any more items even if they happen to be wonderful. It is possible to throw items away, but that's a bit wasteful. You can also send items back to Torneko's home by placing them in a Storage Pot. If Torneko has found some bread, he should probably eat bread in his possession before picking up the bread on the floor.

GARGOYLES ARE TOUGH!

There are shops inside dungeons that sell a wide selection of useful items. The shopkeeper is a Gargoyle. If Torneko picks up any merchandise, the Gargoyle blocks the shop's exit and won't get out of the way until Torneko pays. Trying to fight a Gargoyle is extremely risky because it will more than likely destroy Torneko with its powerful attacks. Still, it is possible to shoplift and get away with it. For instance, isn't there a pot with a strange name...?

TEMPORARILY SAVING THE ADVENTURE

Torneko can take a break from his dungeon exploration by temporarily saving his progress at any Interruption Point inside a dungeon. Interruption Points appear between floors at random, or the floor after Torneko reads a QuickSave Scroll. Torneko may resume his quest from the Interruption Point later. However, after loading the Quick Save data, selecting "No" will immediately return Torneko above ground without money or items. The same fate will befall Torneko if he faints or the game is reset after resuming from temporarily saved data. Beware, the temporary save data is erased as soon as it's loaded.
